

National Crime Agency Sextortion Campaign

The NCA has launched a campaign to combat the threat posed to teenage boys by financially motivated sexual extortion – a type of online blackmail widely known as sextortion. Sextortion involves people being forced into paying money or meeting another financial demand, after an offender has threatened to release nude or semi-nude photos of them.

The campaign (launched on 20 March) will feature on social media channels including Instagram, Reddit and Snapchat. All age groups and genders have been targeted, but the month-long campaign is aimed at boys aged between 15 and 17, giving them the knowledge to spot the dangers posed by this crime type and how to report it. It supports them to understand that if it does happen, it is never their fault.

Remote Access Scams

Some of the most common frauds reported to Action Fraud by residents of Hampshire and the IOW involve criminals connecting remotely to your computer/phone/digital device. Never allow remote access to your computer following an unsolicited call, text, message, or browser pop-up.

Remote Access scams will often begin with a browser pop-up saying that your computer is infected with a virus, or maybe a call from someone claiming to be from your bank saying that they need to connect to your computer in order to cancel a fraudulent transaction on your account. Regardless of the narrative the fraudster's use, their goal is to steal your money or access your financial information by tricking you into allowing them to remotely connect to your computer, tablet or mobile.

Mark and register your power tools

When stolen power tools are recovered by the police, it is often difficult to trace the original owner.

Security marking your tools using a Secured By Design recognised forensic asset marking kit (such as SmartWater or SelectaDNA) or an etching kit, is an effective and visible deterrent to thieves, particularly if you put up signage to show your property is marked.

Property marking also helps identify the owner, gaining evidence to assist in a prosecution. Tools and other property can be registered on Immobilise for free, which can assist the police in tracing stolen property and getting the item returned to its rightful owner.
